

Front Edit Other
Page Page Page

Date:

Former CIA

Aide Named Prof At Duke

Dr. Malcolm E. Jewell has been named visiting associate professor in Duke University's Political Science Department, effective Sept. 1, 1963.

With the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency from 1955-58, Dr. Jewell currently is acting head of the Political Science Department at the University of Kentucky, according to Dr. R. Taylor Cole, provost of Duke, who announced his appointment.

Dr. Jewell has written extensively on political and allied subjects. His books include "The State Legislature: Politics and Practice" and "Senatorial Politics and Foreign Policy." He also edited and contributed two chapters to another book, "The Politics of Reapportionment," and has written numerous scholarly articles. Currently he is on the editorial board of the Mid-West Journal of Political Science.

Dr. Jewell was awarded the B.A. degree, magna cum laude, by Harvard University in 1949. Subsequently, he received his M.A. degree from Columbia University and his Ph.D. degree from Pennsylvania State University.

CPYRGHT